

COUNCILMAN TO SUCCEED YATES WILL BE NAMED

Republican at-large Member to Become Clerk of Courts

TO BE DEMOCRATIC

As Result, Political Complexion of Body Will Change

Selection of a councilman-at-large to succeed T. Vaughn Republican, will be one of the major items on council's slate as the lawmakers hold their next meeting.

Although scheduled to convene Tuesday evening, it was indicated today the group may meet Wednesday at the request of Councilman Yates who said he may be unable to be present Tuesday.

A definite announcement has been made to this effect, however. The new member of council will be Democratic. Consequently, the complexion of Yates, who will take over his duties as clerk of courts in the near future, will transform the councilmanic group from a 4-to-3 Republican unit to a Democratic organization of the same majority. Republicans are Joseph Callahan, C. F. Zimmerman and A. P. Morris. The Democrats are Paul Lyman Goodballet and Samuel Kraus. President of Council James E. Britt is also a Democrat.

SET DATE FOR TERM OF COURT

January Grand Jury Will Be Sworn In On Jan. 7

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17.—The January term of court here will open Monday, Jan. 7, when the grand jury will be sworn in. Contrary to expectations, the jury will be able to meet in the court house, as No. 2 court room will not be ready for occupancy. The January session of the jury will be held in the office of Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty. Lafferty today issued a call for the immediate forwarding to the office of the clerk of courts of all transcripts now being held by lower courts. These are wanted in order that lists of witnesses can be prepared.

On account of a special grand jury being concluded here Oct. 30, it is probable the January jury will not be as active as was the September session.

May Hold Criminal Court To January

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17.—With several criminal cases held over from the court assignment of last week, the assignment issued by Assignment Commissioner James G. Stevenson for the current week has been cancelled. A number of cases that were scheduled to be tried this week will probably go over to the January term.

Judge J. H. C. Lyon, Mahoning county, will exchange benches this week with Judge W. F. Lones, and the visiting court this morning called the case of the State of Ohio against Dwight Griggs, indicted for manslaughter as the result of an automobile accident last summer, and which resulted in the death of George Lones, a relative of Judge Lones.

7 1/2 Pound Son Born To The "It" Girl

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 17.—A bouncing blue-eyed baby boy is Clara Bow's answer to critics of America's "flaming youth."

The "answer" seven and a half pounds worth, arrived just before dawn yesterday to add another name to the list of new arrivals in Hollywood's film colony and to take immediate charge of the affairs of his own film-notable parents, Clara and her tall, cowboy-actor husband, Rex Bell.

Unlike the flaming red tresses of his famous mother, the original "It" girl of the screen, the boy baby has blonde hair.

And Clara's nurse tacitly admitted, he lost little time proving he has a lusty pair of lungs. "Miss Bow," said the nurse, "was feeling fine today and tickled to death that her baby was a boy."

Rex, who likewise was so intent on having a son that he bought "him" a Shetland pony before the youngster arrived, was reported not doing so well. After a sleepless night pacing up and down the corridor outside Clara's room at the Santa Monica hospital, he finally had to retire, so exhausted the doctor in charge considered "putting him to bed" in the hospital.

Early today things were in such a state that neither Clara nor Rex had decided on a name for the youngster.

Board of Health Staff Retained; Plan School Drive

Representatives of the board of health will submit to city council, at the lawmakers' next session, a request that approximately $500 be appropriated for the purchase of vaccines and toxoid for use in vaccination and inoculation of school children.

The majority of school children have neither been vaccinated nor inoculated, board members declared following a recent survey.

The health board has reorganized for the year with the retention of Dr. R. T. Holzbach as city health commissioner, Miss Elizabeth Steer as nurse, and William Roach as sanitary officer.

Twenty births and 12 deaths were reported for the month of November.

Palestine Relief Project Delayed

No time has been determined for the opening at East Palestine of a bed comfort FERA project which, when in operation, will give employment to 25 women, it was announced today at the county relief headquarters. The project, approved by the Columbus office of the state relief commission, was to have opened two weeks ago on a working schedule of 1,200 comforts monthly. Equipment has not been delivered, neither has material been received from the commodities division headquarters.

Men To Make FHA Survey of County

Ninety men are to be employed at an early date to contact every property owner and make a survey of every building in Columbiana county that may be in need of repair.

The survey is to be made under the provisions of the federal housing act. The project as it has been developed at Lisbon has been forwarded to Columbus for approval. No time has been designated when men would be placed in the field to make this survey.

TRAFFIC SKIDS OVER HIGHWAYS; SEVERAL HURT

Car With Woman, Five Children Overturned At Deerfield

TWO SALEM MEN FIGURE IN CRASH

Numerous Cars Spin Into Ditches, But Major Mishaps Avoided

Although King Winter seemed to have scurried off to a far corner for the present, he did leave enough of his wintry breath to freeze a thin sheet of ice over the surrounding highways Sunday night and this morning, sending automobiles gyrating over the slippery roads, with several serious mishaps.

Fog and other impediments to good visibility added to make highway traveling dangerous. The misty weather which greeted church-goers Sunday continued today, with a forecast of clearer skies predicted by the weatherman.

Patrol Answers Call
State highway patrolmen of the Salem barracks answered two calls yesterday, the first of these in the vicinity of Deerfield on Route 224, where an automobile driven by Mrs. Thomas Steen of Newton Falls, filled with five children, skidded and overturned three times when the driver was crowded off the road by another machine.

Luckily, however, injuries were not serious. Mrs. Steen suffered bruises and lacerations about the legs and hands. A son, Thomas, Jr., 12, received two bad cuts on his head which required the treatment of Dr. C. W. Weidemer at Berlin Center. Highway patrolmen administered first-aid to Mrs. Steen, a daughter, Betty, 13, who was cut about the leg and arm, and another daughter, Lois Ann, 5, who received a slight forehead laceration. Another son, Jack, 9, and a daughter, Helen, also 9, escaped injury. The accident happened about 3:45 p. m. Sunday.

Hit Telephone Pole
Nearer Salem, an automobile in charge of Frank Hilditch, 945 East Third st., skidded and crashed into a telephone pole about one mile east of Washingtonville on Route 14 at 6 p. m. Sunday.

Jack Edwards, 52, Enna st., who had accepted a ride with Hilditch, a short time preceding the accident, suffered a broken nose, a cut above the right eye, and right wrist lacerations. He was given treatment at Salem City hospital.

A machine which stalled on the Damascus-Salem rd at 8 a. m. today caused several cars to spin around and into ditches, but no one was injured. A trailer truck was barely able to stop in time to avoid crashing into the disrupted traffic.

Death Toll Higher
Throughout Ohio the death toll from accidents jumped higher. James W. Swearingen, 27, suffered fatal injuries when his motorcycle skidded on slippery pavement near Mildred.

Haveth E. Mau, former United States district attorney for southern Ohio, was injured when his automobile struck a pole on the Dixie highway between Franklin and Miamisburg.

In Toledo, Miss Dorothy Schless.

Police Question 2 Women Here On Shoplift Charges

Two women, said to be from out-of-town, were being questioned this afternoon by Mayor Norman Phillips and Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer. The women are held on suspicion in connection with shoplifting charges.

Several large bags, said to contain an assortment of toys, perfume, dresses, vanity cases and other bits of jewelry, were seized by the police.

The pair were suspected by officials in a Salem store and police were notified.

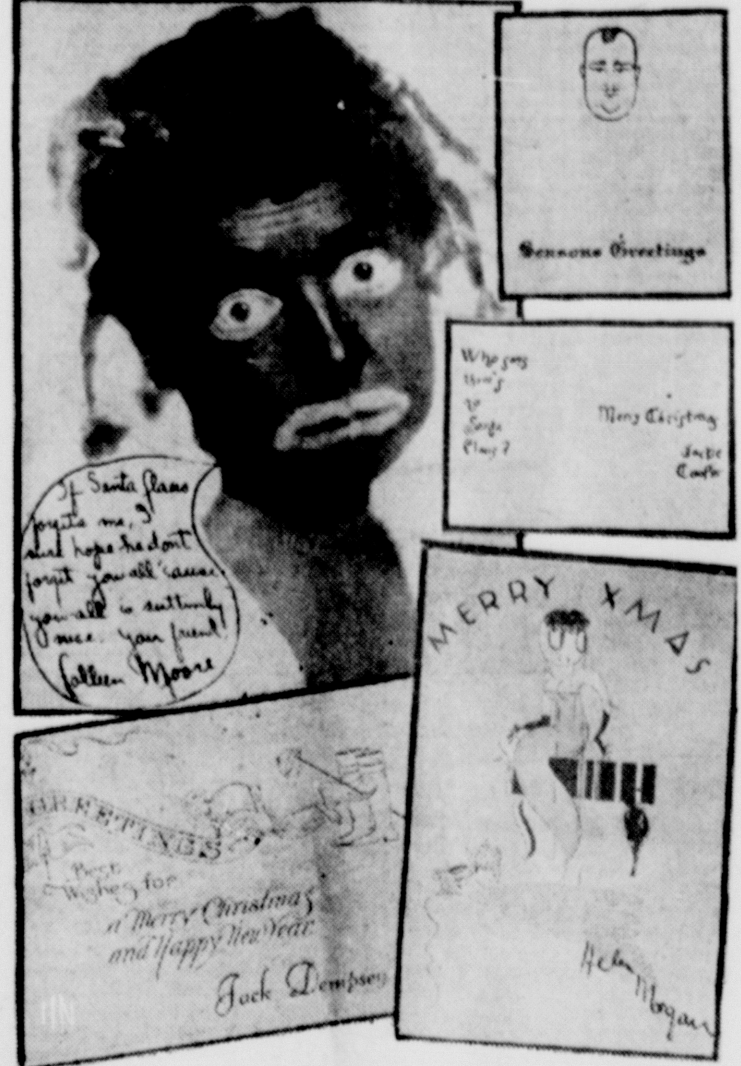

Commissioners Mail Invitations To 500

Approximately 500 invitations have been issued by county commissioners, acting with a special committee representing the Columbiana County Bar association, to attend the dedication of the reconstructed Lisbon court house, Dec. 31. Noon lunch will be served at the Presbyterian church, and an organ recital immediately will precede an address by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of Columbus. It is possible the entire court will accompany Chief Justice Weygandt.

'Sick Child's' Dad Robs Kind Doctor

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Dec. 17.—Dr. G. M. Harsha, former Fayette county coroner, went "down in the country," with a man who told him his sick child needed attention. Eight miles from the city, the passenger in his car produced a gun and said: "This is a hold up." He took the few dollars Dr. Harsha had with him, took the wheel, drove toward a state highway and forced the physician to leave the car. He later wrecked it.

Dr. Dafoe Takes Santa Role, Bearing Gifts To Five Tots

Motorcar Load of Presents for Quintuplets Stored Away In Hospital for Christmas

(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press)

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 17.—A Santa Claus without whiskers but a real Santa Claus just the same, came today through the snow-covered northland to the Dionne quintuplets.

Dr. Allen Roy Dafoe, though he has brought 1,400 children into the world—the cold, bleak world that settles down upon Callander's countryside at Christmas time—has never had as happy a yule-season chore as that upon which he entered today.

Just back from New York and his gift-crammed shops, Dr. Dafoe piled his motor car high with bundles for the two and one-half mile drive to the hospital down whose chimney Santa must slide a week from tonight for his first visit to the five famous daughters of Olivia and Elzire Dionne.

Everything a Christmas pack should hold was in the doctor's car as, ending a two weeks' vacation in the United States—where he saw the second talking movie of his life and his first night club—

Dec. 21 The Shortest Day? Not Often, Scientists Say

This Year, The Shortest Day For the Most of The World Will Be Saturday, Dec. 22

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Dec. 17.—More often wrong than right is the popular conception of Dec. 21 as "the shortest day of the year," according to Prof. Edwin P. Coddington of Ohio State university.

This year, he says, the shortest day for most of the world will be Dec. 22. In eastern Australia and Eastern Siberia it will be Dec. 23.

Equally fallacious, according to the professor, is the belief that the sun rises the latest and sets the earliest on this "shortest day."

As a matter of fact, the eastern standard time belt will have its shortest day on Dec. 21 only in leap years until 1953. After that date, for an indefinite period, Dec. 21 will be the shortest day each leap year and following.

Mornings Shorter
Blasting the popular belief that the sun rises the latest on the shortest day, Prof. Coddington says that the mornings will be shorter and shorter until Jan. 5. On the other hand, the afternoons started to get longer Dec. 8.

In other words, the professor points out, Dec. 22 will be the shortest day, but the shortest afternoon occurred Dec. 8 and the shortest morning will be Jan. 5.

Citing further vagaries of time, Prof. Coddington says that in 1937 the shortest day for the Pacific coast region will be Dec. 21 but for the rest of the country it will be Dec. 22. In 1949 Ohio will have its shortest day Dec. 22, while across the line in Indiana the minimum day will be Dec. 21.

These irregularities, according to Prof. Coddington, are due to the Gregorian calendar, with its system of leap years. The calendar-makers so far haven't been able to arrange a system which will check with the sun itself, even with the omission of the extra day in one leap year out of every century.

LIQUOR STORE WORKERS GIVEN SALARY BOOST

Employees of Branch In Salem Share In Increases

SEVERAL STORES LEFT OFF LIST

Increases Will Add About $4,000 Monthly to Payroll

On the basis of increased sales, the state liquor department today raised the salaries of more than 425 store employees all over Ohio, effective Dec. 1.

The raise affects members of the Salem store.

Certain employees in the state's 120 stores, excepting stores in New Lexington, Lebanon, Paulding, Defiance, Napoleon, Bowling Green, Wooster and Norwalk, will receive pay envelopes fattened by increases ranging from $7.50 to $28 a month. Frank Taylor, state store supervisor, said. The increases will total about $4,000 a month, and will be rewards for increased efficiency of managers, clerks and cashiers, Taylor said.

Raise Is Restricted

The salary increases were restricted to stores doing satisfactory volumes of business.

There are 505 store employees, all under civil service. The raises were arranged after the civil service commission gave its consent.

The basic salary range, not counting a state salary reduction, imposed before the liquor department was organized, but which was applied on the wages of store personnel, is as follows:

Manager, $1,500 to $2,400; clerks and cashier, $1,200 to $1,500. The general state employee reduction was five per cent on the first thousand and 10 per cent on the second thousand or any part thereof.

Dillinger Gang Is Whittled Away; 2 More Still Free

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Authorities today bent every effort toward the complete destruction of the Dillinger gang.

Joseph Burns, 33, one of the last of the desperado's followers, was arrested in his Southside flat with a woman yesterday, and police sought to wrest from him the secrets of two remaining members of the band—John Hamilton and Joseph Fox. The woman gave her name as Mrs. Jean Borland.

Reports, unverified, were that authorities obtained some information from Burns, who is in federal custody.

For several weeks, Deputy Attorney General Edward Barce of Indiana has been in Chicago working with Supervising Captain John Stege in a relentless campaign to round up the remaining members of the band. For several days they knew where Burns was living, but merely kept him under surveillance.

The fact that several days elapsed before Burns was arrested, lent weight to reports that authorities planned at least one more arrest. Authorities also sought to link Burns with two of the year's most sensational crimes—the $427,000 daylight holdup of an armored car in Brooklyn and the slaying of two federal agents.

In Burns' flat authorities found a figure jotted down on a magazine cover indicating a twelve way division of $462,000 which they said might include the loot taken in the armored car holdup. New York authorities, however, indicated they had no such evidence against Burns.

"Sons of Legion", Salem Post Unit, Receives Charter

Everett Rich, chairman of the Salem American Legion's "Sons of the Legion" committee, today announced receipt of the organization's charter, one of the first in the district.

The charter bears the signatures of both national and state department officials.

The charter was signed by National Commander Frank Belgrano, Jr., Nov. 28, and was formally issued by the state department Dec. 8.

Sons of World war veterans, as well as adopted or stepsons, are eligible to join.

Approximately 15 youngsters have been enrolled to date in the local group. Many more are expected.

Other members of the committee in charge of the organization are James H. Wilson, Harry Green, Fred Ludington and Mike Slates.

Quarrel Ends In Fatal Shooting

GALLIPOLIS, Dec. 17.—Charles E. Plummer, 56, was in a serious condition from gunshot wounds inflicted, Sheriff Preston Turner said, in a quarrel which ended in the fatal injury of Thomas H. Steele, 78. Turner said both men had been drinking, and that Plummer struck Steele with a steel coal drill, and Steele fired two shots, one lodging in Plummer's chest.

Steele's skull was crashed.

Greta Will Stay; Likes George Brent

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 17.—Out of the disclosure that the great Garbo, the silent Swede of the cinema, intends to stay in Hollywood to continue her picture career, came the news that Greta and George Brent, divorced husband of Ruth Chatterton, film star, have struck up a close acquaintanceship.

The film colony hesitated to go on record as saying it meant a romance but predicted freely the two would be seen together more often.

If this is sure, it may explain why a "spokesman" for Greta has announced the Swedish actress has no intention of returning to her native country to devote her talents to the legitimate stage.

There have been reports that Garbo was tired of Hollywood and planned to appear in Stockholm. There was even one rumour she was en route to Sweden. Someone found her at home. That is an achievement in itself, for Greta's studio never concerns itself with her whereabouts off the set.

She has a passion for privacy and takes no part in Hollywood's social life.

World of Aviation Honors Pioneer Of Air, Orville Wright

Airplanes draped over widely separated cities today in homage to aviation's 31st anniversary. Thirty-one years ago, the Wright brothers lifted their box-like machine off the sands at Kitty Hawk, N. C., today the nation's skyways throbbled with the engine music of the modern air fleet.

Chiefs of the nation's three aviation branches—the Army Air Corps, the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics and the Bureau of Air Commerce—paid tribute to the Wright Brothers at Dayton.

Planes Dip Salute
Orville Wright visited the grave of his brother, Wilbur, who was with him on the first flight, and 40 planes circled over the city.

More than 200 planes flew over Washington, D. C., in a half hour tribute. Thirty civilian planes circled Kansas City; and all over the country, women aviators joined in the flights.

In Greenfield, N. H., Harry N. Atwood, pioneer cross country flyer, predicted, "this generation will witness the utilization of the air as a predominant medium of traffic."

Youngstown Canal Prospects Bright

(By Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 17.—Detailed plans are ready and work can be started 90 days after an appropriation, has been authorized for the proposed construction of the Beaver-Mahoning waterway. Major W. D. Styer, army district engineer, reported. Prospects of securing PWA appropriations for the $48,000,000 project are "better than ever," he declared. The work would give jobs to about 4,000 men for five years and to 10,000 more for a year in steel, cement and other manufacturers necessary, he stated.

Columbiana Farmer Hurt As Car Skids

Ross Mayview, a farmer residing near Columbiana, was injured Saturday evening when he lost control of his car on the slippery highway and ran into a ditch between Columbiana and North Lima.

He was removed to the Southside hospital at Youngstown, suffering from body bruises.

CITY EMPLOYEES ARE ORGANIZED AT MEET HERE

Group Will Take In All Excepting Elective Officers

OBJECTIVES OF UNIT DISCUSSED

Approximately 60 Workers Eligible For Membership

Organization of Salem City employees was effected at a meeting of representatives of virtually every department at the city hall Saturday afternoon.

The organization, new in the annals of municipal history, will include all city employees with the exception of elective officers.

It is to be a permanent group, representatives said today, formed for "various reasons," as one employee said, including business, social and other "objectives."

"Mutual protection" also will be one of the fundamental goals, it was explained.

Approximately 30 city employees attended the session. It is planned to hold regular meetings hereafter. Approximately 60 workers are said to be eligible.

No name has been chosen for the new organization. Neither have permanent officers been selected.

This will be done, it was explained, at a meeting in the near future.

STEEL BUILDS NEW FACTORIES

One-Hundred-Million-Dollar Program Well Under Way

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17.—A $100,000,000 program of new equipment is today's answer of the steel industry to the contention five years ago that it was then already far overbuilt.

The biggest item in the program of new steel mill equipment is that of the United States Steel corporation, which has pledged $40,000,000 worth of modernization in the coming year.

Another $19,000,000 is involved in construction of new steel production equipment for the Ford Motor company, now in progress. National Steel corporation has announced a $12,000,000 expansion for its subsidiary, the Great Lakes Steel corporation.

Carnegie Steel is building a 42-inch hot strip mill at Youngstown, O., and Bethlehem Steel is planning a 60 or 70-inch hot strip mill for its Lackawanna works at Buffalo.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube company is completing a $7,000,000 mill at its Campbell, O., works, and nearby the Republic Steel corporation is spending $500,000 for a new electric weld tube mill building. Yet back in 1929 and 1930, the opinion was expressed widely that the steel giant had overgrown himself.

Huge plants and new processes had given the industry a capacity five times as great as the depression-time demands for its products. Dozens of plants were shut down and others were working only on a part-time basis.

Today the $100,000,000 new equipment program, much of it already in progress, shows how far the situation has changed.

Automobile manufacturers, biggest consumers of steel today, are expecting the new year to be bigger than 1934, whose 2,700,000 cars compared with 1,839,492 in 1933, and with 1,263,325 in 1932.

Program Is Planned By Guilford Grange

A Christmas party for members of Guilford grange and their families will be held Saturday. A special program and gift exchange will be the features. The next regular meeting will be held Dec. 29.

Two one-act plays were presented at last Saturday's meeting by the Salem Community players. Cast in "Etiquette" were Miss Eileen Pettay and Albert Hanna, and "Bargain Days" Miss Ruth Oberon and Charles Wilhelm. Three applications for membership were received.

Honest Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 17.—One of the most honest divorce reasons I ever heard was given the other day by some fellow. "She suits me fine, but I just can't afford her."

I guess Florida is destroyed by the cold beyond any hope of ever coming back, by what I read in the papers out here.

I see where somebody has started a movement to "unrecognize" Russia. We didn't sell 'em as much as we thought we would. I imagine their recognizing us hasn't turned out so hot for them either.

WHAT'S BEHIND IT?

President Roosevelt's sudden and unexpected intrusion into the attention being enjoyed by the senate munitions investigating committee is puzzling.
Members of the committee are angry. The President, they feel, is stealing their thunder with his proposal to abolish war profits.He denies this. He has assured the senate committee that his war profits committee will cooperate and that he expects cooperation in return. The troubled waters will be oiled as only Mr. Roosevelt can oil them. But committee differences are not the real source of puzzlement.What's behind President Roosevelt's sudden interest in the subject of war profits? Is it only because certain obvious things pertaining to the munitions business have been disclosed that plans for a closed dictatorship in wartime have been brought forward? Or is the munitions investigation only an excuse?Few persons could study what is entailed in most proposals to prohibit war profits without suspecting the motives behind the current move in that direction. This is brought about by inclusion in the proposals of measures only distantly related to war profits, but very closely connected with war dictatorship.Morally, there is ample justification for taking the profit out of war. Politically, there might prove to be many objections. But there is little relationship between war profits and proposals like the following, quoted from the report by the war policies commission created by joint resolution of congress, June 27, 1930. President Roosevelt's suggestions for legislation to take the profit out of war inevitably will lead to consideration of the commission's recommendations.
Some of them are:"In peace have the government, especially the war and navy departments, develop plans directed toward: (1) Gathering and making available to congress all information necessary for the prosecution of war (2) Preventing competitive bidding between government agencies (3) Preventing the placing of contracts in excess of needs (4) Eliminating cost plus percentage methods of purchase (5) Distributing the munitions production load properly over the United States (6) Setting up promptly the government organizations required for war functions (7) Studying continuously the necessary controls over prices, raw materials, transportation, priorities, trade, finance etc."These are representative of the things which would be included in any act to take the profit out of war. Others would empower the president of the United States to commandeer property, compel acceptance of war orders and to confiscate incomes.
What's behind them? Has President Roosevelt chosen to open the subject of war profits during the munitions investigation to discourage war by taking the profit out of it, or to make war mobilization more effective in the United States by setting up a war dictator?

RECEIPT FOR FINLAND

Finland paid $228,538 on its debt to the United States Dec. 15, because "it's the only honest thing to do." What a refreshingly naive viewpoint to take on a financial obligation!If Finland wants to be honest, however, it's no-body's business but Finland's. We don't know what kind of a receipt this government uses to acknowledge payment, but a special inscription is in order.
It might be something like this "Received payment on account, $228,538, Dec. 15, 1934, with the gratitude and admiration due to one honest government among so many whose honesty is in doubt."A recent speech by David Lloyd George, former British prime minister, seems to offer some appropriate sentences to add to this comment on dependable Finland. Speaking of his countrymen's expression of pride in what they believe is British prosperity, Mr. Lloyd George observed: "I always doubt the wisdom of these bragging speeches. I should have thought it was not altogether wise to go and boast to your creditors how much better off you are than he is when you have not paid his bill. There has been far too much of that kind of speaking from the government, and they are taking notice of it in the United States."This is only half true. Unfortunately, it has not occurred yet to most Americans that some Englishmen, comparing Great Britain and the United States, might find the latter the superior nation in some respects. In other words, Britain's apparent recovery to the vast majority of Americans, merely is proof that their own government must be inferior in some way to the government of the older country.
Few have looked at it Mrs. Lloyd George's way. Perhaps the surprise of receiving $228,538 from Finland on approximately $630,000,000 due from all foreign debtors will help to advertise his point of view.

THE STARS SAY

For Tuesday, December 18

The lunar aspects of this day emphasize the prospect of high-tension activities in the direction of launching new and bold projects or attacking the development of untried and adventurous undertakings with determination, aggressiveness and ingenuity. These qualities will be necessary to com-bat definite opposition or obstacles of a tenacious and stubborn nature.Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of high-pressure activities in the direction of launching new and important projects, with the necessity for determination, resourcefulness and keen sagacity in turning tenacious obstacles and opposition into productive and profitable channels. This may call for complete change of plans, with travel, postponements and the support of friendly interests of an unexpected nature.A child born on this day should be active, resourceful, one fine initiative and originality, also equipped with courage, determination and constructive ability to overcome obstacles.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Diary: Up and a letter from his journalism class, flattering me mightily. Then to sit awhile with Ewing Galloway and atop a chara-

Reversing the customs of the established flaneur, he well as the decadent male. In his magnificent huff he also thinks music, art and his sort of toner letters are not important any more. Esthetic abraacabra is dead and he's not sorry. He added all writers were dumbbells, as though that might be a hot bit of news.Personal nomination for the most perfect figure among the screen ladies—that of Ginger Rogers.Few movie fans know the Wuppermans, but all know the eminent actors, Frank and Ralph Morgan.

Well, the Morgan brothers belong to the equally famous Wupperman family distinguished in the patent medicine field. The Wuppermans have for years controlled American distribution of a celebrated tonic bitters. The mother, in her 80's, is present active head of the prosperous business, but the sons got away, changed their names and became actor fellows.Reuben, the delicatessen who expanded a six-tier sandwich into an institution, is expanding again.
This time he jumps to a well-groomed reach of the Plaza zone on Fifth avenue, where it is presumed his yum-yums will be served on gold plate.I drove through the bleak stretch of the Bronx where Hauptmann lived the other dusk. The lure for the curious is still evident. A chilly evening there were knots of sight-seers, the usual group of loose stocking, moist nosed and gaping youngsters and about a dozen automobiles. Two policemen were on guard to shoo souvenir snatchers. Likely the crime scene of most enduring curiosity in New York is the former home of the bridge expert, Joe Elwell, in the West 70's. Although the crime is nearly 20 years old, there is scarcely a day there are not several who come to gaze and wonder.There is rousing need for an anti-guild against phony piano players of the movies. No other deceit so spoils the cinema illusion as players sitting at a dummy keyboard going through a lot of silly gyrations. Why not delete the scene entirely—or learn to play?

How to Give First Aid to Burns

Modern improvements, particularly in the development of safety devices, have helped to lessen the dangers of fire and consequently of

Dr. Copeland

burns. Yet burns continue to be a serious menace to the human family. Sometimes they result in disfigurement and may cause permanent damage to the body. It is wise to take every precaution against this dreaded accident.Of course burns can occur from other things than fire. Serious burns come from scalding soup, water or other liquids. Children suffer from these. Adults receive painful and disabling burns from contact with poorly insulated electrical appliances, by careless handling of hot embers, hot fluids or combustible fluids, such as gasoline and kerosene.Burns are classified as of "first degree," "second degree" and "third degree." A first degree burn is the simplest form. Most of us have experienced this type, perhaps by accidentally touching a lighted cigarette or match. The outer skin becomes red but the underlying skin remains intact.

Third Degree Burns

In a second degree burn the skin is red and painful and blisters form upon the surface. This is the type of burn that requires early medical attention. If neglected it may lead to infection and delayed healing of the burned area.The most serious form of burn is the so-called third degree burn. In this not only is the skin charred, but the underlying tissues and muscles are destroyed. This is the type of burn that ultimately leads to ugly and disabling scars.Serious constitutional disorders often follow a third degree burn.
For example, severe inflammation of the stomach and intestines can often be traced to an extensive skin burn. This is due to the toxins or poisons formed by the destruction of skin and burned tissue.Though severe burns require expert medical attention, it is well for everyone to have a knowledge of the treatment of a burn. If properly administered, valuable assistance may be given while awaiting the arrival of a physician.

How to Treat Burns

A simple burn is relieved by a soothing and cooling application of moistened starch, flour or baking powder. When the burn is more extensive, an antiseptic should be applied. In most instances the application of olive oil, castor oil or vaseline is sufficient to protect the burn from air and relieve the pain.
But be careful not to apply dirty or contaminated ointments or other substances.When the burn is severe the patient should be kept warm and quiet until the doctor arrives. A hot water bag should be placed to the feet and he should be encouraged to take a hot drink of strong, black coffee or tea. A teaspoon of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a little water, or a sip of whiskey will prevent collapse and lessen shock.Whenever possible the victim should immediately be rushed to the nearest hospital. There he will receive the necessary care to prevent scars and severe complications.

BUICK SHOWING
FOUR 1935 LINESCover Broad Range From Low Medium to High
Medium FieldsFLINT, Mich., Dec. 17.—Four lines of motor cars are announced by the Buick Motor company for 1935, covering the broad range from the low medium to the high medium price fields and offering the largest variety of body types in the history of the Buick organization.The new cars, keyed to modern requirements of style, comfort and performance, are being displayed simultaneously throughout United States in showrooms of Buick dealers and distributors. With the factory in full production on the 1935 models, adequate stocks are now in dealers' hands and representative models of the complete line are on display. Dealers, consequently, are able to make prompt deliveries.For the first time, the Buick Motor company enters a new year with four distinct groups of automobiles, all similar in design and construction, varying only in details of dimension and price class.
The extensive line gives price coverage of approximately 27 per cent of the entire automobile market, a condition expected greatly to increase Buick volume during the coming year.The 1935 Buick cars consist of the following groups:1. The new series 40 Buick on a 117-inch wheelbase, having a valve-in-head straight eight engine developing 93 horsepower at 3,200 revolutions per minute. This car, now being produced in six body types, is Buick's bid for the lower priced volume field in which the company has had exceptional success during the past seven months.
Identical in appearance and fundamental features of design and construction with the higher priced lines, the Series 40 extends Buick ownership to thousands of motorists hitherto excluded by reason of price.2. The series 50 Buick for 1935 is built on a 119-inch wheelbase chassis and is produced in five body types.
Before the addition of the Series 40, this car bore Buick's lowest price tag. It now is the second group in the company's program for complete coverage of the broad medium price class. Powered with an 88-horsepower straight eight engine ofvalve-in-head design, the Series 50 combines all the traditional Buick qualities of dependability, performance and style in a group of cars distinguished for their fine car features.3. In still another price arena, and one in which the company has dominated throughout its manufacturing history, is the Series 50 Buick, distinctly a fine car and a standard bearer of Buick quality.
Offered in six body types, including two convertibles, the Series 50 is powered with a 100-horsepower valve-in-head engine that provides a luxury of performance. The car is built on a 123-inch wheel chassis and is marked by its distinctive appearance, large roomy bodies and attractive interior appointments.4. Buick continues to dominate the fine car or deluxe field with its Series 90, a group of eight automobiles of unusual quality. A limousine is included in the Series 90 body types as well as two convertibles. All models are virtually custom built to the owner's order and are available in an almost limitless number of options as to color combinations, interior trim and deluxe appointments. The car has 136-inch wheelbase and is powered by a Buick valve-in-head straight eight engine developing 116 horsepower.PLAN YOUR CHRISTMAS

"BEACH BEAUTY" by ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER XXI

As the little car, drove and got out her evening dress, she wanted to be at the beach—appearing at such a place and in such a dress, was sure, would be a reminder.

She appeared for dinner and her eyes seemed to shine with the thought of the beach. She couldn't help feeling her hair. "You look like a million," he exclaimed.

Her thoughtfulness showed in the dinner which included of Kay's favorite dishes, broiled pompano, cocktail and Camembert. It was a very fine wife she supposed must be a model.

The movie was good, too, though it was one disturbing thing in the two "mugs" as Spike called them who were on the boat. Harrow sat two rows behind. Kay saw them when started.

During the show, she took a long time to go to look her very things. Strangely, her hair behaved beautifully and the light from the dressing table a coppery tint she liked to the dress looked refreshingly new, somehow; and her eyes complexion were at their best.

When she stepped out of the car, she found a car, she was not disappointed.

It was scary, but somehow there was a pleasant thrill, too, in knowing that you were brushing shoulders with mystery and danger. She didn't stop to realize it, so many words, the fact was whatever trepidation she did was for Harrow, not herself.

They were lined for a block out in the jungle yard leading back to the swimming pool, and the name clear, though softened by distance and the night air, came back within the trees toward the river. Harrow parked the car and they walked back among the grape arbor and into the night.

It was that night a scene that deserved being described as a legend. The swimming pool lit up among pines, palms, grace-ful banana plants and huge white ears, and was glassed in with French windows. Around the pool were tables for a side-lake, and colored lights and things in the air. To the rear, looking the river, was the semi-circular dance floor much like the deck of a ship, with rail lights and platforms. The orchestra was on a platform to the left, surrounded by tropical foliage. To the right, on a house-top at the front of the lot, was a convincing artifice. The real moon had not yet come out of the ocean, over the tops beyond.

As they walked in Kay felt that she was at the moment the proudest, most fortunate girl in Daytona Beach. In Florida for that matter. People she knew spoke to her heads turned, other heads bent as tongues began to wag. "Yes, my friends, she said to herself, this is little Kay Owen. This is the distinguished Earl Harrow. Charming, we're sure."

At her table, she began to look around. She knew nearly everyone and hoped no one had missed her. Among others she saw "Ches-kitty," who wrote the intimate column for the newspaper. "Kitty" saw her. That was as would be. She'd be sure to read the column tomorrow. And there Jack Dinsmore with a stunning girl from Atlanta. And several of the Community Players—Katin-Goodrich, Wellie Shaw and the Duff among them. Yes, Kay thought, this is your night. But where was Ida Campbell?

Finally, as she and Harrow walked slowly over the terrazzo floor, she saw Ida coming in a large party of her own. Ida smiled and then at once and smiled. A smile never had been sweet-

"I'm so glad you came up," Ida said, "now we will have a party."

Harrow's new show, "Regret Me Not."

One of the other men at the table, Jack Henderson, asked Kay to dance and monopolized her for two numbers, then kept her standing with the crowd near the orchestra watching the little negro tap dancers. When Kay returned to the table, Earl Harrow and Ida Campbell were gone.

One dance went by, two, three, and still Harrow didn't appear. Kay pretended to be interested in what Jack Henderson had to say, but inside she was angry, hurt and bewildered. For one thing, it wasn't like Harrow, considerate as he seemed, to go out and desert her this way. Kay thought of the "mugs" and of the men who had been following Harrow apparently to do him harm for some mysterious reason. But surely they couldn't have come into the dance and have abducted both Harrow and Ida. No, there was only one thing to believe.

When an hour had passed, Kay said to Jack Henderson "I'm sorry, I'm dreadfully tired. Would you mind taking me home?"

"Oh, stick around, Kay. The evening's just a pup."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

"Well, sure, if you insist, I'll take you home."

"I'm sorry."

She shook her head and smiled.

"Drink maybe?"

"No, thanks."

So he took her to her door and then leaned down to kiss her. Kay wriggled away gracefully, said a quick, cheery "Good night," and ran inside. It was only then that her feelings began to overpower her.

Kay Owen sat a long time over her breakfast the morning after the swimming pool dance. It was Sunday and she did not have to report to the yacht. She reflected cynically that there was little enough reason to report any day. Things there were beyond her comprehension. At first Earl Harrow had seemed to be a glamorous possibility for a friend in court in New York theatrical circles; then he had seemed to be interested in her personally, enough so that somehow she began to return that interest; and now look... The work she was doing for him amounted to little more than a glorified postcard.

Meanwhile some mysterious men were keeping near him, so very near that he had hired the two "mugs" as guards. And last night, what had happened? Harrow had disappeared with Ida Campbell; he hadn't even stopped by the house to apologize. Decidedly, the people and affairs connected with the Commander III were getting to be too much for her.

An hour or so after breakfast, she rode her bicycle to the beach and found a place to sun-bathe near the Harvey street approach. Lying there alone, watching the Sunday bathers and motorists from out of town, she could see one tall figure tower. A couple of weeks ago Pete Ryan had sat up there and now he was in Guatemala. When life began to play its tricks it didn't seem to know when to stop. Kay supposed that, if the Commander III hadn't docked at Daytona Beach because of a northeaster, Pete would still be perched atop that tower, ready to grin down at her when she stopped beneath and waved.

When she returned home she found a note from Earl Harrow. At least, she thought as she opened it, it was Ida, not the thugs. Harrow had written:

"Dear Kay—I can't begin to tell you how sorry I am about last night. It was really the fault of mine. Ida asked me to drive her over to the drug store for some aspirin and she said it wouldn't take more than one dance. I looked for you, but you were on the floor, so I told one of the men to tell you. It seems he must have forgotten. We drove over and got the aspirin, but Ida seemed to be suffering from her headache and appeared quite ill. She wanted to be driven about a bit in the cool air. I doubt if we were gone very long and I certainly thought you had been told of the circumstances. At any rate, when I found you had gone home I drove by your house at once, but saw no light. Jack Henderson said you, too, had complained of feeling ill, so I decided not to wake you. I'm just stopping by now before starting for Jacksonville on some rather pressing business. Again—I'm very, very sorry and I trust you didn't misunderstand."

That helped, but it still seemed thin. Next morning, however, when she went to the yacht, Kay decided to be as pleasant as usual. After all, any other attitude would seem only silly.

Harrow met her as she went aboard.

"Kay," he said, "you got my note yesterday?"

"Yes."

"It was disgusting of me. But as I explained, it couldn't be helped. You must think I'm about as inconsiderate as they come."

"On the contrary," she said, smiling.

"That fool! He should have told you."

"But it's perfectly all right, Mr. Harrow."

"It can't be. Else why the 'Mr. Harrow'?"

"Earl, then."

"Good girl."

"He patted her arm."

"You're having lunch on the boat?"

"Oh, don't bother."

"No bother at all. Every day, in fact, unless you'd rather not. Now that your family's away you should consider this a sort of auxiliary home. Feel perfectly free about it."

"Thank you," she said.

Salem Whips Sebring Cagers Saturday By Score of 27-18; Meet Lisbon Here Tuesday

Quakers Flash Offensive That Overpowers Visitors; Salem Reserves Hand Sebring Reserves 21 To 10 Trouncing

By RAY L. DEAN, News Sports Editor

Salem High school's basketball forces continued the momentum they gathered in sweeping aside the Wellsville Bengals cagers on Friday and buried the Sebring High warriors under a 27 to 18 onslaught on the Quaker hardwood Saturday night, while hundreds of followers of the sport filled the gymnasium with cheers of encouragement.

It marked the first home game of the season, with many more to follow. Tuesday will come and that will mean another encounter for the Quakers, meeting the neighborhood foe, Lisbon, fresh from a victory over Louisville Friday. Lisbon, however, copped the win by only a 29-26 margin. Lisbon previously went down in defeat when it opened its season against New Waterford.

Quakers Open Drive Early

The Quakers opened their game with Coach James Hostettler's Sebring team Saturday with a polished attack that gave them an 11 to 5 lead at the end of the first period, rebounding in the second quarter to shove forward to a safer 20 to 12 advantage. Sebring scored the first field goal but the Quakers kept pace and, before the end of the period, were out in front.

In the last half of the game the Quakers lacked the scoring punch and registered only three points in the third period and four before the game ended. Sebring, unable to take advantage of the Quaker lull, slipped through the Salem defense for only two points in the third canto and flipped four in the final marker.

Coach Herb Brown started a combination that included three letter-men and Charles Palmer, center, and Cliff Beck, guard. Midway in the game Palmer suffered a sprained knee and was replaced by John Lutsch, who went on the loose three occasions to score three goals. Palmer tried a comeback but the knee again forced him to the bench.

Demonstrate Effectiveness

The Quakers demonstrated the effectiveness of their offense, designed to work the ball into close range. Sebring's basketkeepers seldom were able to break successfully the Salem defense.

After the opening buckets, Salem and Sebring saw-sawed back and forth for a while with good shots by Mullins, Beck and Cope and a brilliant foul shot by Palmer, giving the Quakers the lead. Figuring in the Sebring early attack were Agnew, Burgess and Walls.

Instrumental in advancing the cad for Salem in the latter part of the first period were Beck, Cope, Palmer, McCloskey and Mullins, who made good a foul try. Burgess scored first for Sebring in the second period on a foul. Walls and Agnew accounted for one basket each to put the score at the half Salem 20, Sebring 12.

Cagers Slow at End

Both quintets slowed down when they returned after intermission. Salem recording only three points scored by J. Lutsch on two successive baskets, interrupted only by a good throw by Mullins. Walls gave the visitors their only score in the period.

The final quarter was filled with excited play, but marked by little scoring. The hardwood trailers shot wild, save for ones that "clicked" by Beck, Cope and J. Lutsch again. Sebring's fluttering spurt featured two free shots by Burgess and Burns and a goal by Burns.

The Salem Reserves proved too much for the Sebring scrubs to handle and walked off with a 24 to 10 victory, with Raynes, center, registering 11 of the winning points.

J. Campbell sank two through the Sebring hoop in addition to four free shots which he made good.

Not once were the Quaker reserves, all of them freshmen and sophomores, in danger. The Salem secondaries scored consistently.

Reserves Show Power

At the end of the half, Salem was ahead, 16 to 5. In the third period the Quaker seconds allowed Sebring only one point on a foul, while they themselves scored six more. McGhee made good two foul shots in the last frame for Salem.

Faculty Manager Fred Cope today announced that Joseph Fejes, of Sharon, would officiate the Salem-Lisbon encounter tomorrow night. A previously scheduled game between faculty members of both schools was cancelled today.

The preliminary will get under way at 7:30, with varsity squads tangling at 8:30. Tickets are on sale at the Reich cigar store, and Lease's drug store.

Pause For Holiday A long game, Ohio Wesleyan at Baldwin Wallace, is on the Saturday night schedule and then the basketballers quit until Dec. 28, when Ohio State plays Temple at Philadelphia, and Loyola of Chicago invades Cincinnati.

Ohio State topped off a basketball clinic here Saturday with an unimpressive win over Carleton of Northfield, Minn., 24 to 13. The Bucks will have one or two practice sessions this week and reassemble for another Wednesday, Dec. 26.

In other games Saturday night Defiance college defeated the Marion Y. M. C. land, has been on the winning side against Army five times in various sports, and has the chance to make it seven before he is graduated next Spring.

"Flirtation Walk," With Powell, Keeler, Is First Military Musical

BRINGING with it the enchantment of the Hawaiian nights, the spirit of the United States army, the thrill of West Point and youthful romance, "Flirtation Walk," a military musical is at the State theater today.

Powell Scores Again
Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler are starred in the film. Powell, who had his first starring role in the recent "Happiness Ahead" and made a tremendous success of his first straight role, has another in this picture that should do much for him. While "Flirtation Walk" is really a musical, it has a distinct story to it and Powell as the cadet has a grand chance for some genuine acting.
Miss Keeler, too, is given a better opportunity than she has had in several of her last films. Pat O'- Brien is prominently cast as Sergeant Thornhill. In addition to the stars the entire cadet corps of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, a portion of the Pacific fleet and a detachment of the regular army at Honolulu are to be seen.
Most of the scenes were made right at West Point with the permission of the military authorities and it is considered authentic in every detail.

Patriotic Background
Frank Borzage, director of "Seventh Heaven," was at the helm for the Powell-Keeler film. The picture has all the color and burrah of the oldtime George M. Cohan efforts, with West Point taking the place of the flag waving—it is this very pagentry, bands blaring, cadets parading, trumpets blowing that brings "Flirtation Walk" into a class all of its own. Nothing exactly like it has ever been seen on the screen.
The story too, is well written, runs at a fast pace, with the action sustained. Bobby Connolly's dance routines, one a Hawaiian dance, the other a small chorus drill during an amateur show, are well spotted.
All in all, "Flirtation Walk" is thoroughly good entertainment with the three principals doing splendidly. Others in the cast are Ross Alexander, who scores as Powell's roommate, Glen Boles, John Eldridge, Guinn Williams and Henry O'Neill.

Lederer Is Starred
"PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS," adapted from the recent Broadway success of the same name and providing a starring story for Francis Lederer, handsome Czech star who was first seen in "Eekimo," is coming to the State Tuesday and Wednesday. With the star are Joan Bennett, Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland.

STORE BECOMES TAX COLLECTOR

Coupon Will Be Divided Between Buyer and Seller

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of short articles to illuminate various aspects of Ohio's impending retail sales tax.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Dec. 17.—Operators of retail mercantile establishments in Ohio become tax collectors under the retail sales levy.
Their job in cash sales is roughly outlined by the sales tax law as follows:

The merchant or his agent shall collect the tax at the time of the sale, immediately cancelling the tax coupon or coupons on such sale, in the presence of the buyer.
This is done by tearing the tax coupon along a perforated line, giving half of the coupon to the purchaser as a receipt of the tax and retaining the merchant's stub as a record of the collection of the tax, subject to checkup by the tax commission or its agents.

The commission in regulations to be made soon will go into further detail on the procedure of the actual collection and maintenance of records by merchants.

In sales put on charge accounts the coupons for the sale will be cancelled as outlined and the amount of the tax added to the account.

There will be no tax on purchases less than nine cents. On sales up to and including 40 cents the tax is one cent; two cents between 41 and 70 cents, inclusive; and three cents from 71 cents to $1, inclusive.

amount of the loss was undetermined. Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer reported.

Entrance was gained through the cellar window, the chief said.

NEW YORK—A new aid for deafness has been discovered, which makes it possible for sufferers to improve their hearing themselves by means of a simple breathing and muscular exercise.
In the great majority of cases deafness is due to catarrhal conditions, according to experts, and the obstruction of passages leading to the ear, which prevent the proper functioning of the delicate mechanism of hearing. This is known as middle ear deafness. By skillfully exercising the muscles of the pharynx the circulation of the blood is quickened and the affected parts revitalized. Even if this type of deafness be deep seated and chronic, the results are said to be highly gratifying. The new treatment has been devised by Henry Geiger, a voice specialist of long experience in cultivating the voices of singers and speakers.

Restoring the beauty and strength of the smashed, bent "Stream Line" fender is the work of a trained specialist adequately equipped with the special tools required.
